Hasan Rashed Hamadeh has attained a Bachelor's Degree in Civil and Environmental Engineering from the American University of Beirut. He was raised from a prominent Lebanese political family; his grandfather Sabri Beik Hamadeh was the Head of Lebanese Parliament for more than 25 years.

From a family of politicians to engineers; his father, Rashed Hamadeh, is a Masters graduate of Civil Engineering from the American University of Beirut class of 1974. Rashed founded several companies throughout his career; amongst them was Contracting & Engineering Works (CEW), a Grade A construction company in Lebanon, in 1982. Hasan moved to the UAE in 2005 to pursue a career in a growing country full of promising opportunities. He joined Robust Contracting, where he worked till the end of 2007 and helped build the Global Village Sales offices, the Green Community West Phase Two and many other projects. These big budget projects helped him master his leadership skills and move up the ladder to greater responsibility within the same organization. 2007 was a turning point in his career when he joined forces with A&H Investment and Roger Abi Saab to establish Al Ghurair Contracting & Engineering Works LLC. His democratic management style focuses on improving individual employee skills and knowledge, while still maintaining a team work spirit and atmosphere among all management levels. It is this dynamic style of management that has lead to such outstanding accomplishments and high quality projects delivered on time and within budget.

Currently Hasan is an active managing partner in Al Ghurair CEW where he strives to maintain and strengthen all Company-Client partnerships through all projects and endeavors. Hasan also continuously seeks to re-invest in AGCEW's employees in order to improve the company's overall performance and efficiency and offer top of the line services to all clients. His goal is to realize the commercial and professional success of AGCEW through his applied managerial strategies. His long-term vision is to expand the company's profile, and client base and setting a winning example of modern and agile management in a dynamic industry.
